

EVERYDAY RACISM IN THE WORKPLACE: How does it feel?

A Leonardo Da Vinci Partnership Project

OPEN CONFERENCE Tuesday 13 May 2014

Angus Centre for Enterprise
Dundee & Angus College, Keptie Road, Arbroath
Angus, Scotland

FREE with lunch and refreshments

The concept of “everyday racism” affects us all.

Over the last two years, social scientists from Germany, Iceland, Italy and Scotland have been studying the structures and narratives of everyday racism, prejudice and discrimination as part of a European funded project.

Now, with a wealth of information to share, the group are holding a day-long conference designed to shed light on the widespread, but seldom acknowledged, issue of everyday racism. They’ll be discussing ways of changing the concept of diversity to being seen as a positive asset rather than negative.

This conference will have wide appeal across many sectors and will be particularly relevant as social diversity increases.

If you are interested in attending or wish more details, please contact:

Pauline McDonald on +44 (0)1241 432722
or email: p.mcdonald@dundeeandangus.ac.uk

EVERYDAY RACISM IN THE WORKPLACE: Dissemination Conference

Programme

8.30-9.00am	Registration and coffee
9.00-9.20am	Everyday racism/everyday discrimination: Theoretical input about the concepts Cherry Hopton
9.20-9.30am	Discussion and Q&As
9.30-9.50am	Presentation: Everyday racism in Germany Ingibjörg Pétursdóttir
9.50-10.00am	Discussion and Q&As
10.00-10.20am	Coffee break
10.20am-12.30pm	Stereotypes, prejudice, discrimination, hidden discrimination - what do these concepts mean, how does it feel to experience it? Guðrún Pétursdóttir
12.30-1.30pm	Lunch
1.30-2.30pm	What can be done on workplaces to detect and respond to hidden discrimination? Guðrún Pétursdóttir
2.30-2.50pm	Coffee break
2.50-3.15pm	Presentation of the postcards and the Report Rona McGregor/Cherry Hopton/Mina Welsh
3.15-3.40pm	Short presentation of ENAR Luciano Scagliotti
3.40-4.00pm	Panel discussion Moderators: Marco Alfieri and Antonella Montanari Participants in panel: Anna Maria Milosz, Angelica Cantú Dávila and Györgyi Turoczy.
5.00pm	Informal discussion with partners and participants

Programme subject to change.

